Martin and Harriet Colip wanted to move somewhere warmer. Both captains in the Salvation Army, the two on June 28 took over the Southwest Madison County operations in Granite City after serving in Wausau, Wis., for a hard winter that made them think about moving someplace warmer.

They serve the Granite City, Collinsville, Edwardsville and Highland areas.

"We love it — it's so different from Wisconsin," Martin said. "It was really a tough winter."

The snow on one of the local ski hills in Wausau didn't melt until June 4.

"I said it's time to go someplace warm," Martin said.

Welfare reform legislation 'scary'

Salvation Army captain worries about effects of federal reform

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The newly-approved Welfare Reform Act is potentially "scary" because nobody knows what is going to happen, says Salvation Army Capt. Martin Colip.

Colip and wife Harriet recently took over as the new leaders of the Salvation Army in Granite City.

The act, recently signed by President Bill Clinton, is a major overhaul of the welfare system.

It is which is touted as "ending welfare as we know it," would eliminate most federal programs and shift them to states in the form of block grants.

Welfare recipients could receive benefits for only two years at a time, for a total of five years during their adult life.

"You look at part of it and you say it's good, we're not going to have people living on welfare all their life," Colip said. "Unfortunately, it's going to hurt a lot of people for a while."

"We've got a generation after generation of welfare recipients," he said.

"I've dealt with as many young people who's only concept of making a living is to go to their mom or dad walk out to the mail box at the beginning of the month to get their check," he said.

"We have to put that work ethic back in people and teach them they can make it without this welfare system."

One of the biggest hurdles will be the availability of low-cost child care.

At about $100 per week per child, someone working a minimum-wage job would probably be unable to survive,

"You look at part of it and you say it's good, we're not going to have people living on welfare all their life. Unfortunately, it's going to hurt a lot of people for a while."

— Martin Colip
Salvation Army

he said.

"There are going to be an awful lot of jobs out there at $4 and $5 per hour," he said. "If you take a family of four and try to live on $200 per week you have to pay rent, groceries, health insurance and all the other things that all of a sudden they're not going to have."

"Unfortunately it (welfare reform) is going to hurt some people for a while, and the (Salvation) Army doesn't at this point know exactly how it's going to affect us," he said.

He said block grants will pit social welfare agencies against one another.

"They're going to put their dollars into a big pot and we're going to be fighting each other for them," he said.

"Nobody knows what's really going to happen. They passed it, but it is going to work."

"The real help is to help them find their own way, whether that's through budget counseling or finding jobs or getting better job skills or dealing with that drug and alcohol problem."

Gambling boat thief pleads guilty

The leader of a ring of gambling boat thieves has admitted to snatching off slot machines in casinos across the country beginning in 1988.

Orville Walker Durham, 40, of Tulsa, Okla., pleaded guilty Thursday in U.S. District Court to one count of conspiracy to commit arson, one count of aiding or abetting a business enterprise involving illegal gambling and two counts of interstate travel in aid of a business enterprise involving illegal gambling.

Durham, who was arrested by Alton police March 8 as he stepped off the Alton Belle Casino, faces up to 15 years in prison and fines up to $750,000. A sentencing date has been set for Nov. 1 in the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Fred Riley.

Durham, a former girl friend, Dana Ann Woods of Doy, and an acquaintance, Fred J. Comfort III of Oklahoma, have pleaded guilty to the charges before U.S. District Judge Woods and Comfort were arrested with Durham March 8.

Durham, who appeared in court Thursday in a pair of denim jeans and a white T-shirt, is accused of collecting more than $1 million in slot machine tokens by using an optic cheater wire or "monkey wire."

The device, which was inserted into the payout payout slot machine to dump tokens when there was not a winning combination.

Durham's attorney, Thomas Hildebrand of Alton, said he had argued during the sentencing phase that his client collected a substantially smaller amount in proceeds.

"The government's calculations are in response to the ramblings of his ex-girl friend," Hildebrand said. "I believe they came up with the $1 million figure based on Woods' bragging to authorities. If he made all this money, he did an equally good job in spending it."

Hildebrand said Durham's

motor home and yacht, reportedly funded with gambling money, have apparently been released.

Durham admitted hiring "blockers" to stand near him while he inserted the cheating device into the machines.

Blockers were also responsible for causing in slot machine tokens in an attempt to alleviate suspicion that could arise from one person cashing too many tokens.

Durham also acknowledged he hired drivers to transport him and his co-conspirators to casinos throughout the country in Durham's motor home.

Durham, who lived with Woods in Oklahoma in 1994 and 1995, admitted using the devices in casinos in Iowa, Nebraska, New Jersey, Texas, Mexico and Arizona, as well as the Alton Belle, the Casino Queen in East St. Louis and the President Casino in St. Louis. Durham and his crew were also accused of using the devices at an Indian reservation in Mississippi and in casinos in the Bahamas.

U.S. Attorney Bruce Reppert also accused Durham of traveling to Mexico to buy prescription drugs.

Durham admitted he trained others to use the cheating devices for a $400 fee. The trainees paid Durham with illegal proceeds from the money.

The charges also accused Durham of failing to report his illegal earnings to the Internal Revenue Service. He also failed to file federal income tax returns from 1992 through 1995.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Norm Smith, who prosecuted the case, claimed that Durham, Woods and Comfort divided $4,500 in proceeds from the Casino Queen March 7. When the three were arrested in Alton the following day, they reportedly possessed a total of $8,319.

Durham and Woods split up in 1995, but according to authorities continued to work together.

Officials said Durham and his crew used their profits from slot machines to fund additional trips.

Durham told the judge during his pleadings that he earned a high school equivalent education, serving a prison sentence in Oklahoma in 1987 for drug and weapons offenses.

Tower plan gets endorsement

A proposal to build a new telecommunications tower near the Madison County Nursing Home, 2121 Troy Road, has been recommended by the County Board's Building Committee.

The 300-foot tower would be built and owned by AT&T Wireless PCS. A proposed lease between the county and AT&T would require the telecommunications company to pay $8,000 per year to rent the site.

The tower would have space for both the county's and AT&T's antennas and be available to rent. Under the lease, the county would receive 25 percent of income from any lease agreements.

The lease also guarantees that AT&T's antennas will not interfere with the county's communications. The lease is renewable every five years for up to 30 years.

The lease is scheduled for a final vote by the County Board at its 9:30 a.m. meeting Aug. 21.

East St. Louis was selected as host partly because of its previous work in supporting the Million Man March.

Bush was one of only a handful of mayors allowed to address the crowd at the march in Washington D.C. The march resurrected the National Black Political Convention, which has not been conducted since the mid 1970s.

A variety of workshops are expected during the convention with special activities, such as a large prayer vigil. The convention is expected to draw national and international attention.

Safra said the convention is a chance for East St. Louis to show the entire country how it has turned itself around in recent years.

Brooklyn health center expands

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

Demand for medical care at a Brooklyn center has increased so much that officials are increasing the center's staff.

Southern Illinois Healthcare Foundation recently announced that it will be increasing its physician coverage at the Brooklyn Health Center on 10th Street. "We are always looking at ways to better meet the needs of local residents," said Robert Klutts, executive director of SHIF.

Rosa Kincaid, M.D., family practitioner, has started seeing patients from 8:30 a.m. until noon on Monday and Friday.

Dr. John Albert Jolivett, M.D., internal medicine, who has offices in Granite City from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, and Darrell Ballinger, M.D., obstetrics and gynecology, who is at the center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday.

The center was opened in 1992 to provide medical service to Brooklyn area residents who have trouble getting to the larger medical facilities in East St. Louis or Granite City.

The center was opened by SHIF in Brooklyn in conjunction with an East Side Health District WIC office.

Appointments can be scheduled at the Brooklyn Health Center by calling 482-8000.

SHIF also operates a similar health center in Washington Park, which serves local residents and Faculty.

The Washington Park facility recently added a bilingual member to the staff in order to better serve a large Spanish speaking segment of the community.

Edwardsville police to publicize hot line

Use of the Edwardsville Police Department's crime tip hot line has waned since it was introduced two months ago, but officials plan an advertising blitz this fall to publicize the number.

One effort will be at Edwardsville High School, where police want to place bright blue and white stickers in each classroom and in other areas of the school, said Capt. David Bopp.

"We're going to talk to the school district about posting them out there," Bopp said. The number, 692-7552, also will be in next fall's Ameritech telephone book, he said.

Squad cars now sport the bumper stickers, which were printed last month and distributed to local businesses. The department also passed out calendars and plastic memo holders advertising the number.

"People said about 20 people have used the hot line so far,"

Family seeks help in finding killer

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

Family members of murder victim Zac Sharp are renewing efforts to find the teen-ager's killer. Sharp, of Richmond Heights, was killed Sept. 1, 1995, in East St. Louis.

"We thought that since we were coming up on the one-year anniversary that we would flood the area again with information about his murderer," said Butch Hartmann, Sharp's stepfather.

Police have been posting throughout East St. Louis in recent weeks a $7,000 reward for information leading to a conviction in the case.

Venezia's assets were seized by the U.S. government and most have been sold.

Cueto, 47, is charged with one count of conspiracy to defraud the U.S., five counts of obstruction of justice and one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Venezia, 49, formerly of Belleville but now in federal prison, was charged with one count of conspiracy to defraud the U.S., three counts of obstruction, one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and one count of perjury.

Romanek, 47, of Belleville, was charged with conspiracy to defraud the U.S. and one count of obstruction of justice.

Cueto said Cueto, filed false pleadings in a civil case — Venezia vs. Robinson; "corruptly instructed" a federal grand jury witness to assert his Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination in an effort to prevent the witness from testifying about the illegal Betta gambling machine, replacing the machine after the FBI and Internal Revenue Service seized machines at approximately 30 Metro East taverns; attempted to persuade the St. Clair County state's attorney to indict an Illinois Liquor Control Agent who had been working under cover with the FBI; filed false pleadings in U.S. vs. B&H Vending/Aero Music Corp., and conspired to obstruct the current federal grand jury investigation into an alleged obstruction of justice involving a previous federal grand jury.

The obstruction of justice charges have a penalty of up to 10 years in prison, three years supervised release and a $250,000 fine. The other charges each have a potential penalty of up to five years in prison, three years supervised release and a $250,000 fine.

The charges are a result of an investigation by the FBI and IRS.

Arraignment has been set for 9 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 14, at the U.S. District Court in East St. Louis.

•Raceway

Once the drag strip is completed, work will begin on the oval track.

When finished, the raceway will have state-of-the-art drag and oval tracks capable of holding NHRA and IROC events.

The raceway would attract 100,000 spectators per year, more than the St. Louis Rams, according to backers.

When not being used for races, the facility could be used for a variety of auto-related programs, including a law enforcement driving school, race car driving schools, vehicle and product testing and auto commercials.

Sharp had gone with several friends to East St. Louis to celebrate his going away to college.

The group got lost trying to find a club and pulled off to the side of the road at 8th Street and Trendy Avenue to drink beer. Three men in a car, led by Sharp's car, shot him and drove a short distance before setting the car on fire.

"Nobody is safe as long as people like this are on the streets with guns," Hartmann said.

Anyone with information about Sharp's murder can contact the East St. Louis Police Department at (618) 482-6767.

Information may also be given to the local Illinois FBI office at (618) 624-6248 or the local Missouri FBI office at (314) 241-5357.

learn the area.

The two joined the Salvation Army in Janesville, Wis., in 1987.

Though the business was difficult, his wife operated the store while he worked as a community center director, overseeing gym programs in Janesville.

They both started working for the army full-time in 1989.

"We joined because of God's calling," Martin said. "We went on a tour and we liked it. We had lived in one town all of our lives, it was a different experience."

After serving in the inner city area of Milwaukee, they moved to LaCrosse, then Wausau.

Martin said the Granite City area is "neat."

"We're here to help people," he said. "You have the nice setting of a small town and all the advantages of a big one."

He also said the area would provide a "good challenge."

The most immediate need is building up the food pantry.

"We're trying to make the community a little better, but just looking at what we handle daily there is a need in the very near future a need for a shelter in this area," he said. "There is one in Alton and one in Belleville, but anytime we call there they're full."

Martin said they currently have to put people in motels. "Shelters are used for several different things," he said. "It's always there for an emergency if somebody is burned out or something."

"Sometimes people just lose their apartments due to eviction. They can't find another place to live, and they have to pay low-paying jobs they just can't afford the rent, and you know you can only put a landlord off for so long."

"We're just there to make sure people don't have to sleep on the street," he said. "Our function is to meet the needs of those who are less fortunate — whether it be through providing food baskets or providing shelter, helping people just try to survive."

50,000 to attend black convention in East St. Louis

By Mike Viola
Staff writer

About 50,000 people could come to East St. Louis to participate in activities for the National Black Political Convention.

The convention will attract African Americans from around the country to share ways to improve the African American community.

East St. Louis is the host city for the convention, although some of the larger activities will have to be in St. Louis.

"All of the details are being worked out right now," said Harold L. Lewis, executive secretary for Mayor Gordon Bush. "It's a very big event."

Bush and city officials recently met with organizers to start planning the convention.

One of the leaders behind organizing it is Benjamin Chavis, former head of the National Black Political Convention.

Ishaq Shafiq, assistant to Bush, has been the convention's main coordinator.

The convention is scheduled

BAC student plays variety of activity roles

During the last academic year, Kellie Dellamano played a clown, a mouse and an ice cream vendor. And she's not even an actress.

These were all roles that Dellamano, 18, of Granite City portrayed in her duties as a Campus Activities worker for Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus. She had received a $1,000 scholarship for 1996-97.

Dellamano had dressed as a clown around Halloween, when she took coloring books and other treats to children in area hospitals. And she was Grandma Mouse, helping to keep children entertained during GCC's annual Holiday Morning with Santa in December.

Dellamano has applied these and other activities so much that she has applied for one of two Campus Activities scholarships available for the 1996-97 academic year. Applications currently are available in the Campus Activities Office, 4950 Maryville.

"Actually, I wish I could have done more, but with also working in the (GCC) bookstore and classes, I was limited in what I could do," Dellamano said.

A sophomore majoring in special education, Dellamano has considered going to college but decided to stay closer to home. And now she's very glad she did.

"I tell people that at first, I really didn't want to be here. But then I started taking classes and getting involved and meeting people. Now, I think going here was one of the best decisions I ever made."

For more information on applying for a GCC Campus Activities scholarship, call the campus at 931-0600, extension 656 or 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 656.

Student leaders cited

Sixteen area high school students are recipients of the Sons of the American Revolution Outstanding Leadership Awards.

They were honored at recent meeting of the organization's St. Louis and Clark Chapter in Westminster Church in Belleville.

The award honors students who best exemplify the high standards of good citizenship. The standards are: personal integrity evidenced by record of punctuality, truthfulness, honesty, loyalty, trustworthiness, and self-control; cooperation (as evidenced by the student's ability to work with others, respect for property, respect for the rights of others, and courtesy); leadership (as evidenced by loyalty to and knowledge of the purposes expressed in the Preamble of the Constitution of the United States).

The featured speaker was Terry Delaney, United States Marshal for the Southern District of Illinois.

Public works official retires

The man who oversaw Glen Carbon's booming infrastructure during the past 16 years is turning road repairs and sewer line problems over to his assistant.

Richard "Jake" Carter, 55, packed his boxes and retired as director of public works this month in order to take things easy.

"I am going to miss the people more than anything, but not the snowstorms, water breaks, floods and calls in the middle of the night. I'll miss being on the front end of the municipality. It's been a good ride."

Carter, former chief operating engineer at Edwardsville's water treatment plant, said he has no plans for his retirement. "I'm going to do anything I want," he said with a smile.

Assistant director Tom Sedlacek, who is expected to be named director at Tuesday's Village Board meeting, praised Carter.

"He was single-handedly responsible for setting up the infrastructure. He's done a terrific job, mostly doing all the subdivisions himself," Sedlacek said. "And there are more than 30 subdivisions in this town. He has seen our population grow from 4,000 to more than double that," Sedlacek said.

"The hardest part was the organizing work," Carter said. "We had three full-time people, and none of them had experience. We had to teach them to school," to get certified for doing street work, mosquito spraying and water and sewer work. He also had to oversee construction of a new water treatment plant.

The department employs 10 full-time workers to care for 45 miles of road, 70 miles of water lines and 50 miles of sewer lines, Sedlacek said.

Sedlacek, 40, began working with the Street Department in 1974. He said he plans to "move forward in improving the infrastructure, training enforcement of the sedimentation and storm water erosion ordinance, fixing sewers and preparing for water service from Edwardsville.

Haida seeks tougher penalties

Sexual predators should face minimum of 30 years, he says

By Rosemary Hicks
Staff writer

St. Clair County State's Attorney Robert Haida is seeking stiffer penalties against Illinois sexual predators. After the arrest of Belleville man accused of having more than 50 child victims.

"Predators" prey on your children and your disabled. It's up to them," Haida said. "It is outrageous and must be dealt with harshly. We must protect our children."

Haida said he would like to see Illinois legislators place a minimum 30-year sentence on sexual predators.

Belleville resident Danny Starnes, 21, was charged last week with three counts of sexual abuse of children. Investigators believe there are many more, possibly more than 50, victims. Metro East and St. Louis area.

A second Belleville man, Robert Wiegand, was charged later in the week with aggravated criminal sexual assault. (See related story.)

Schwab will be prosecuted under the new Illinois' sexual predator law, which was passed by legislators in 1995, because all of the alleged victims were under age 16. The offense, a Class X felony, carries a sentence of six to 30 years.

Haida said that six years is not enough for this type of crime.

"A six-year sentence is not acceptable in a case like this," Haida said. "Studies show that predators are not easily successfully treated. Our system is letting these children down by putting them back on the streets. Every day that one of these criminals is in prison they will not be preying on our children."

He said that although he will not be able to use this proposed law against Schwab, he would like to be able to help out future lawmakers.

"I don't want another state's attorney to be compelled to ask for a stiffer law later," he said.

"I have the opportunity now to make this change."

Haida would like to have the 30-year life sentence apply to even first-time sexual predators.

State Rep. Thomas Holbrook, D-Belleville, State Rep. Jay Hoffman, D-Belleville, and William Starnes II, a Republican running against

Haida for county prosecutor, are supporting Haida in his call for the stiffer sentence. "We are minimally protecting the children that are our future," Starnes said. "We cannot do anything for the poor children who now carry the scars of what has happened to them, but our primary responsibility now must be to protect other children from this type of individual today and in the future."

Hoffman said that there should also be a way of notifying area residents of individuals who have been convicted of misdemeanor sex crimes.

In 1988, Schwab was convicted of sexual abuse of a child in St. Charles County and received a six-month sentence and probation. Haida said Schwab was accused of being charged with seven felony molestation counts, but the charges were reduced in a plea bargain.

The Belleville Police Department and State Police have been investigating Schwab since receiving an unusual call about month ago.

Haida also commended the law enforcement agencies Tuesday for the exemplary work they have done on the case.

Hotel becomes classroom

Mike Hayes, coordinator of Belleville Area College's Hospitality Food Service Management program, recently spent three weeks of his summer at the Adam's Mark Hotel in St. Louis.

He wasn't relaxing in the lap of luxury. Instead, he was working in the hotel through a internship program.

He spent his time working in various facets of the hotel, including housekeeping, reservations and check-in, banquet set-up and room service, so that he could observe the hotel's style of operation and management.

"The internship really helps me keep up with what is happening in the industry," Hayes said.

This is the third year that Hayes has participated in the internship program.

The internship is part of the state's Vocational Instruction Practicum, a hands-on learning program for secondary and community college students.

In 1994 he served his internship at McDonald's restaurant on Carlyle Avenue in Belleville. In 1995, he worked with the Ponderosa restaurants.

He adds that the internships are useful: the more he experiences in the hospitality food service industry the more information he can pass along to his students; and he receives credit toward a graduate degree through the Illinois State University at Normal.

Wednesday, Aug. 14
It's a new moon in short-stopping Leo, and that means you're more like You.
You benefit best from a Zen attitude regarding all things, but especially love - the moment is supreme, but those who try to work out problems by rehashing history or projecting into next year will miss out on today's offerings.
Everyone seems to have a hand on his or her ego.

ARIES (March 21-April 19).
You turn your arms to a newcomer. Young people and inexperienced co-workers have views worth supporting.
There's no point in arguing with your mate today - neither of you is likely to budge. Have your signals straight.

T A U R U S (April 20-May 20).
Change is gradual - just the way you like it. A benefits program at work may be expensive, but you'll be glad you bought in. Be very diplomatic with associates - relationships can affect work.

G E M I N I (May 21-June 21).
You don't take offense where you could, which is why you will be successful. You have duties, and you may be tied to a tedious task despite your free-wheeling mood. Never mind what others say - listen to your heart.

C A N C E R (June 22-July 22).
You are extremely generous,
but is it keeping someone from learning how to do it alone?
Keep promises to your love or spouse. Be patient with an unimaginative co-worker. Your own thinking helps solve problems.

L E O (July 23-Aug. 22).
You may need money for your hobby. A child will ask for more, but keep to the rules.
Your spouse is moody and perhaps annoyed with your family. Relatives may try to exert influence on your problems. Are your birthday

T O D A Y ' S B I R T H D A Y (Aug.
14). Start now to put those old money problems behind you - it's the year to get in shape both financially and physically.
You are ultra-attractive in September and get many proposals. Try to make a rocky love work in October.
A job you like gives you money to play with. Invest in your artistic talents.
Your best signs for love are Capricorn and Pisces.

V I R G O (Aug. 23-Sept. 22).
The big trick to problem-solving is to know what's yours to fix and what is another person's responsibility.

Strong relationships with co-workers see you very well say this. A Sagittarius is finally on your side.

L I B R A (Sept. 23-Oct. 22).
Many distractions get in the way, but you'll make more progress than you expect.
Differences in ideas and attitudes toward material items or religion can make big impact in a new romance - approach with no illusions.

S C O P I O (Oct. 23-Nov. 21).
Get an early start - you can change much. Smile when a relative tries to take advantage of your good nature, but don't give in. Put off new commitments, even when you are pushed by the boss.

S A G I T T A R I U S (Nov. 22-Dec.
21). It's your opportunity to change your life. Little trips are canceled, and you long to stay in and perhaps work alone. Tonight, dreams may hold messages. Visits to distant places are good.

C A P R I C O R N (Dec. 22-Jan.
19). Agreements made now aren't set in stone, but they stick through the years.
Nonetheless, more goals are accomplished as you hang out with those who are your way. Weed out what doesn't work.

A Q U A R I U S (Jan. 20-Feb.
18). An old friend makes a startling confession. You're willing to take the responsibility, and others are willing to give it to you.
Working late is likely. Call Dad, or spend a few minutes in a personal talk with the boss.

P I S C E S (Feb. 19-March 20).
You are more determined than ever to figure out your own mind. A flirtation may lead to a secret affair. Original ideas are the key to getting things down your thoughts and dreams.
Throw out old fears, and take a positive view.

O'Fallon-West opener stirs '68 memories

You know why I look forward to the 1996 high school football season with so much anticipation?

It's not just because it will mark former East St. Louis coach Bob Shannon's first season at Alton, or because the Southwestern Conference is adding Lincoln of East St. Louis and Edwardsville, or because Larry Betz moves into full-time duty at Belleville West after replacing the injured Dan Hendrickson.

It's because in recognizing a Friday, Aug. 30, season opener that has O'Fallon playing at Belleville West, it was led to one of the most remarkable weekends in the history of the Southwestern Illinois area.

The year was 1968, and October topics included names like John F. Nix and Humphrey.

It was a political world featuring a mess in Vietnam.

The national sports scene included Gibson and Schoendienst, St. Louis Cardinals and St. Louis Tigers, and a guy named McClaflin, and the St. Louis football Cardinals had Bobby Joe Conrad, who failed to catch a pass for the first time in 95 games although Big Red gained a 27-21 win in Cleveland before 79,349 fans. In hockey, a team of Blues, including Red Berenson, held first place.

Locally, a high school football fan could not have had it better. If he or she were from Belleville, where that city's grid team entered the season with a 22-2 record, with Belleville East carrying a 19 record while Althoff and BTHS West each were 5-1.

The latter records had been rendered on Oct. 18, when more than 8,000 fans watched Althoff defeat West, 12-6, marking the first City Series victory for Crusaders coach Max Hamilton since he took the job in 1960.

If that game seemed to be a mid-season peak, consider Oct. 25 — when East, in its third year of varsity football, was to host O'Fallon in its first annual season of varsity games while Althoff awaited St. Louis U. High for a key Bi-State Conference game on a Saturday when West would be in Alton to challenge the 6-0 Redbirds.

The results? On a pre-Halloween weekend only a trickster could accept unprecedented records for all four East and O'Fallon, 13-13; Althoff and St. Louis U. High, 13-13, and West and Alton, 6-6.

For Althoff, Bob Tribut ran for two touchdowns and Marty Kreckowicz kicked four points while West (coached by Bob Samples) tallied on a 7-yard pass from John Bunch to Ed Merten. Alton avoided defeat on an 8-yard run by Gerry "Spoon" Wilson.

However, the game that brought O'Fallon to its first meeting with a Belleville school is most memorable.

Clippers start playoffs in style

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

The Granite City Clippers began the Mon-Clair League playoffs in style on Saturday, as they pounded four home runs and defeated the resilient St. Louis Wizards, 16-7.

The Clippers (18-7) move on to the league's double-elimination round of the playoffs, and will square off against rival Waterloo this Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the Buds' home field in Waterloo.

Meanwhile, the Wizards were eliminated from the playoffs for the first time this season at 14-14. But they were notching at least one win for the Clippers, even with ace righthander Darin Hendrickson throwing on the mound.

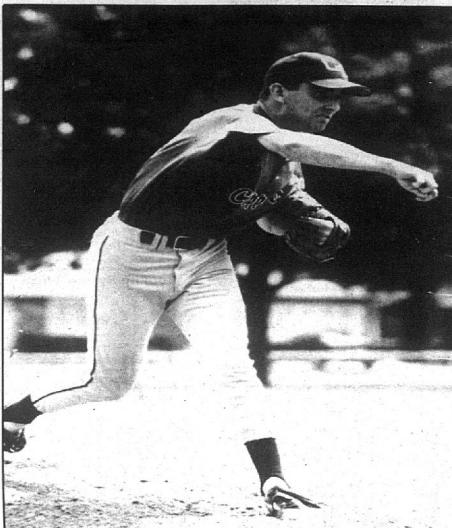

"We knew we'd get a fight from them," said Clippers player-manager Daren DePew. "They played us tough three weeks ago when we split a doubleheader, and I think they played us tough today."

"I thought we showed something today. We played a very good team tough right up until the last at-bat," said Wizards manager Mike Bauer. "The main thing I was sure we needed to do today was to be aggressive at the plate, and we did that."

"Now if you let Darin get ahead, you make it that much harder on yourself. So we wanted to take a rip at the first good pitch we saw."

Hendrickson did a good job of hitting, rapping nine hits against Hendrickson (14-12). But importantly, Hendrickson didn't walk any batters, and fanned 10.

"Darin didn't have his best stuff," said DePew. "But Darin's fault." True enough. The Clippers every time we made an error, they'd score, and that's not

PGA tourney coming to Boone Valley

By Dan Barger
Staff writer

Roger Null is convinced Boone Valley Golf Club will become an instant favorite among those who play golf for a living on the Senior PGA Tour.

"It's probably as good of a golf course they'll play all year," said Null, who oversees the conditioning of the course in his role as vice president and general manager. "It's a player's golf course — difficult but fair."

The golf course will receive its first big-time tournament test when the likes of Bob Murphy, Jim Colbert, Hale Irwin and Walter Morgan and other senior players compete in the inaugural Boone Valley Classic, Sept. 2-3.

Null and golf course superintendent Rick Hyson are the turf management specialists who are responsible for making the course in top condition and tending to the horticultural needs of the Boone Valley links.

"The greens are normally very fast and the thick, heavy rough will be a major factor," Null said. "The toughness of the course is probably unusual for a Senior PGA Tour course."

Null says playing well on the first five holes at Boone Valley will be the key to a good round. The initial five feature par-4s ranging from 490 to 410 yards and a par-3 at 211 yards.

"The sixth (par-5, 553 yards) will be exciting because a lot of players will be going for it in two, making a lot of angles, birdies and 'others,'" Null said. "Other key holes to watch are the 11th, 15th and the 18th hole."

The 18th hole is a 410-yard par-4 that features a narrow fairway that stretches the length of the fairway on the right. Another smaller bunker guards the left side. Null says a mid-to-long iron will be needed to reach the 20,000-square-foot green, which is nestled behind a lake.

The 18th green is located in a natural amphitheater on a hill from the Boone Valley clubhouse and will be a prime position to view the tourna-

In addition to his turf management knowledge, Null, 52, is one of Missouri's best amateur players. This year alone Null tied for second place at the Ping Amateur, was the runner-up medalist at the Missouri Amateur and made it to the semifinals of the Taylor Cup.

"Null says the Boone Valley membership is proud of its record," said DePew. "It's nice to see how the Senior PGA Tour handles the difficult course."

though it was part of the only three-tie weekend in Bellevue prep history.

Unbeaten in 10 games, including four from the previous season, the Lancers of Bellevue averaged 37.5 points per game and had allowed just 23 total. Junior halfback Tom Lang was coming off a four-TD romp over in which he took the area scoring lead from Wimberly with as many as 22 tackles in a game, led the Lancers' defense.

Meanwhile, 5-1 O'Fallon was coming off its first defeat, 13-7, anything different to the course," Null says. "It'll play just as the members play it. We play real golf here. I hope the Senior PGA doesn't slow the greens down or ask us to cut the rough."

Ticket information for the Boone Valley Classic is available by calling (314) 991-2999. A general admission badge costs $30 and can be purchased 2-8, which includes practice rounds, pro-ams and the three rounds of the tournament. at Springfield Lanphier, although the Panthers had beaten Marion 18-13, the team that had lost 49-0 to East.

The OTHS attack featured quarterback Vince Ancell, halfbacks Curt Goodman and Bob Stoll, fullbacks Jon Monken and Rich Ott and pass-catching end Marty Pepping.

Renn's warning became reality in the form of O'Fallon's first drive, a 14-play, 89-yard march culminated by Monken's 1-yard plunge and a point-after kick by Bob Lemen. Amazingly, a 45-yard run with a fumble recovered by Brian Gordon gave OTHS a 13-0 lead in the second quarter.

In their five years of dominating play in the league, the Clippers could always flex their muscles if they needed to. But that trait had been lacking this season. Even when they team has hit well, as in a 32-run effort in the Valsmeyer tournament, they had not collected a single run.

After forfeiting a pair of games last weekend, DePew reached into his hat and pulled out some rabbits for the play-off series.

Players who hadn't seen this kind of play in the last few years suited up for this one, with players recalls. Jim Spotanski, a Clippers regular for several seasons before this one, was back in uniform; as was Joe Wallace, who hadn't seen action in several weeks.

And Rich Schardan, who pitched for Granite City a few years ago, stepped into the lineup.

Spotanski and Wallace hit countless line drives in their at bats, and Schardan connected for a solo homer that kick-started the Clippers to a five-run rally in their half of the eighth.

Granite City got out to a 5-1 lead by scoring four times in the third inning. Brian Harshany singled home John Moad, who had tripled; and Wallace singled before DePew homered to left.

But the Clippers wouldn't go away. Mike Klein's two-out hit in the second made it 5-2 and after Brian Muniz tripled and scored in the seventh it was 6-2.

But after Schardan connected in the eighth against losing pitcher Jason Frey, the flood gates opened.

After Tim Hogan singled and second baseman Jamie DePew reached on an error, DePew slammed a long homer to right. Spotanski then put the icing on the cake with a solo shot to center.

"We had some trouble getting some young kids out, so we asked some guys to come and help us out," said DePew.

"We had five guys who didn't show up and we were worried about it. We just don't forfeit. We don't like that. We're a little irritated, so we're coming to play this week."

"We had some guys missing today, too," Bauer said. "That kind of hurt us, but I'm proud of the way the guys played today. They didn't let us show up and go through the motions. We were down 5-1 to the defending league champions, and after an inning of sitting out, our heads we came back and made it a 5-5 game against the best pitcher in the league. That says a lot about us right there."

The team, coached by Fred and Wanda Nettles, is part of a league forming in the Metro East. It will play its first game through eight games. The program is designed to give girls a chance to play basketball in the summer as well as their respective schools this fall.

Christian singer, composer to appear at Calvary Pentecostal

Christian music singer and composer Gordon Jensen will be ministering at Calvary Pentecostal Assembly on Aug. 17 and 18.

The Saturday concert begins at 6 p.m., and the Sunday service starts at 9:45 a.m. The church is located at 4650 Maryville Road in Granite City.

Over the past 20 years, Jensen has been involved in Christian music. Nominated on five occasions as "Songwriter of the Year" by the Gospel Music Association, several of Jensen's compositions have garnered the GMA's "Top 10 Songs of the Year" distinction.

Among the 300 plus titles he has written are "I Should Have Been Crucified," "He's as Clean as the Day He Was Born," "His Name," "Tears Are a Language," and the pro-life statement "Sometimes They Cry."

Widespread radio airplay and chart success have become a fact of life for Jensen through such hits as "I Still Love You," "God Still Loves the World" and "Bigger Than Any Mountain."

His songs have been recorded in excess of 2,000 times by such artists as Larnell Harris, the Imperials, Dallas Holm, Eyle, Doug Oldham, the Cathedral Quartet and Truth.

The classic "Redemption Draweth Nigh," which Jensen penned at the age of 18, has been recorded more than 300 times alone and became the musical theme for the movie "A Distance Thunder."

Jensen's music defies categorization as it reaches many people and appeals to a wide spectrum of people. He has enjoyed enthusiastic response in a variety of concert settings, including colleges and churches of all denominations.

His superb in-person communication, Jensen's songs address issues related to the Christian experience.

"My goal is being anywhere before people is to exalt the Lord Jesus Christ through the gifts He has entrusted me with," said Jensen.

"Nothing of real value can occur if I were there for any other purpose."

The Rev. Mark Maynard, pastor of Calvary Pentecostal Assembly, and the church congregation extend an invitation for you to join them for these musical events. There is no cost or obligation to attend events; however, a freewill offering will be received.

For more information, call the church office at 931-4106.

St. Bartholomew's Church holding special services

Looking forward to celebrating its 90th anniversary in its present building, the congregation of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church will hold special services on Saturday, Aug. 24.

On that day, observes throughout the world-wide Anglican Communion, the Rev. Peter H. Beckwith, of the Diocese of Springfield.

The bishop will be assisted by the Very Rev. William E. Davis, dean of the Darrow Deaneery of the Diocese, who also served as priest-in-charge of St. Bartholomew's.

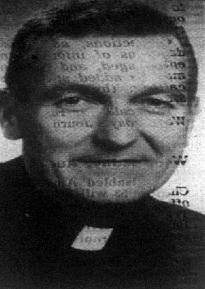

The church was organized before the turn of the century, began by first meeting in homes. Then, in 1900, assembling at Emerson School (20th and Elmwood Avenues), moved to Tully's Hall (19th and State) and, finally, to its then new, now present, building at 22nd Street and Grand Avenue.

In 1949, the building was enlarged with the addition of a parish hall. Major renovations were undertaken in 1949, completing the basement of the parish hall, adding a narthex to the north end of the building and installing leaded glass windows and a Shrine of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

In the 1970s, the sanctuary and basement dining room were renovated and a new organ was acquired at 2604 Delmar Ave., replacing the previous house at 2019 Delmar Ave.

The congregation, which has been served by its present priest, the Very Rev. William E. Davis since 1986, contributed significantly to the building and supplies volunteer help to many organizations in the community.

Beckwith's visitation will honor the congregation's long history of worship and service in the community of Granite City and the Diocese of Springfield. The public is extended a special invitation to this festive celebration at 7 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 24.

Welfare reform likely to end some SSI benefits

By Bill Hunot

About 134,000 disabled children and adults will lose Supplemental Security Income payments as a result of welfare-reform legislation passed recently by Congress and signed into law by President Clinton.

The legislation requires the Social Security Administration to discontinue "individualized functional assessments" (IFAs) in evaluating a disability claim for SSI purposes.

SSI is the federal government's welfare program that assists people who are blind, disabled, aged or poor. SSI, administered by the Social Security Administration, although no Social Security money is used to pay benefits or administrative costs, SSI monthly payments range from $1 to $470 depending on other family income.

IFAs resulted from a decision in 1991 by the U.S. Supreme Court in Sullivan vs. Zebley, a class-action lawsuit filed against the U.S. government.

In that case, the court ruled that the government failed to follow the law requiring SSI to pay children benefits if their impairments were of "comparable severity" to disabilities that qualify adults for benefits.

At that time, SSI regulations made it more difficult for children to qualify for benefits than for adults. Adults who apply for disability payments go through individual evaluations of their physical and mental abilities. The pre-Zebley rules required children to meet narrowly defined categories of medical conditions in order to qualify for SSI. If a child's condition failed to meet a listing, no individual assessment was made and benefits were denied.

The court found that the listings disregarded rare childhood diseases. At the time, the listings did not even recognize spina bifida, Down's syndrome, autism, muscular dystrophy, cerebral palsy and other well-known diseases.

Pain, side-effects of medications, feeding problems, dependence on medical equipment and combinations of impairments were ignored.

The court decided that even if the listings were expanded to cover many more childhood impairments, no

finite list could "respond adequately to the infinite variety of medical conditions that can affect children."

The listings used prior to the court's decision had prevented Brian Zebley, one of the plaintiffs in the lawsuit, from receiving SSI despite cognitive delay, mental retardation, developmental disabilities, eye problems and musculoskeletal impairments.

The suit was one of the largest disability cases ever filed against the U.S. government. A lower federal court ruled in favor of the Zebley family and 400,000 other plaintiffs, but the government appealed the decision to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court upheld the lower court ruling in a 7-2 vote, ordering the Social Security Administration to meet the "comparable severity" requirement, and in effect, establishing IFAs.

The welfare-reform legislation trumped the Zebley decision by deleting the "comparable severity" clause from the Social Security Act. The Social Security Administration is now required to review over the next 10 months benefits now paid to 280,000 children.

The administration estimates that about 134,000 children now receiving SSI benefits will lose those payments effective July 1, 1997.

Handy tips on the use of Power Trimmers from the experts at FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS Where Beautiful Things Begin

The nylon weed trimmer was one of the greatest inventions for homeowners. Before they arrived, trimming along fences and walls was a chore nobody enjoyed. You still may not like doing it, but you have to admit it's a lot easier with the latest equipment.

These gadgets make short, easy work of trimming those spots where the mower can't reach. You can even edge the walk with them to some extent. The line may not be as straight as you'd like, but it's quick.

Today's models, with their automatic line feed, are far superior to the first ones, which required manually pulling out line. All you have to do is use the machine and the line extends out whenever it's needed. And you can pick from gasoline or electric.

If you've ever experienced difficulty with these machines, the problem most likely is centered around the line feeding mechanism. And when you have to constantly open the unit up and pull line out, it's annoying, to say the least.

Smooth line feeding requires proper winding and threading the reel. Reel edge already on the reel edge, not manual winding, but it's a little more expensive. Plus, you must get the size designed for your type of machine. Bulk line is more economical, and you wind it onto your reel. Bulk line is available at Frank's, as well as some sizes of pre-wound.

Many people don't want to bother with bulk line. Instead, they buy it and it tangles easily if you aren't careful. If you pull all the line out of the package at once, it can get tangled beyond belief, with little hope of restoration. The trick is to keep as much of it in the package as possible while you're winding it. Many packages of line have a little hole in the back, allowing you to accomplish that easily. You just pull line as it's needed. Here's the easy method of line replacement.

First, determine the direction the line is to take coming off the spool. If you get it on backwards, it won't work. The direction of the line and which side of the reel faces up should be printed on the reel.

There should be a small notch on the inside of the reel, and this is where one end of the line is inserted. Once it's snug, carefully wind the line into the reel. This is where you have to be precise.

Place each loop of line immediately next to the preceding one. In other words, don't allow the line to criss-cross anywhere. Gradually work your way to one side of the reel, then the back, keeping the layers side by side. It only takes a few minutes, and it's worth the effort. Haphazard winding of the line will tangle it on the reel, resulting in erratic or no automatic line feeding.

When you get to the reel's capacity, cut the line, but allow a few inches to protrude from the reel. This helps you insert it into the machine. Make sure to feed the line precisely according to the machine's directions.

If everything's done properly, your weed trimmer should feed the line without hangup. If it quits feeding line, carefully check the reel. The line should not criss-cross at any point. If you must unwind, do so with care... the tangling possibility will be even greater, since it will be out of its protective packaging.

Finally, here are two precautions. Always wear good eye protection and keep people and pets at a safe distance when you're operating the machine.

Help provides turning point for center's Turner

Diane Turner knows what it's like to get a helping hand. That's why she said she is glad to help others as a student worker in the Special Services Center of Belleville Area College, Granite City Campus.

"I got the help I needed, so it's easy for me to relate to other students with special needs," said Turner, 42, of Granite City.

She took advantage of the center's services in the fall of 1994 when her eyesight began to deteriorate from the effects of macular degeneration, a rare eye disease that can cause blindness if not treated. Turner was given a special portable, heat-resistant computer screen for her computer and English class. She also was provided with a list of agencies to contact to obtain other special equipment she needed.

December 1994, Turner became the youngest person ever to undergo a cornea transplant at the Unshurter Patch Eye Institute, located at St. Louis University. Since then, the vision in her left eye, which was 20/400, has improved dramatically.

"My vision in my left eye is 20/30. With contact lenses or glasses, it's 20/20," said Turner, and added that the vision in her right eye is 20/400. She hopes to have corrective surgery on her right eye in about a year.

Turner began working at the GCC Special Services Center in November 1995. Several people had applied for the position, but her familiarity with the center was a deciding factor in Turner getting the job.

The GCC Special Services Center currently serves about 75 students. Turner works every weekday and averages about 20 hours per week.

"We provide equipment. We have textbooks on tape. We provide students with not takers for class. I've even gone a couple of times to take notes for students," she said.

Recently, Turner has been joined in the center by Carolyn Smith, an intake coordinator and counselor who now works at GCC after spending a year at BAC's Belleville campus.

Turner said she gets a great deal of satisfaction out of helping others.

"For each student it's different. I don't look at them as handicapped students. I look at each student individually," said Turner.

For more information on the GCC Special Services Center, call the campus at 931-0600 or 1 (800) BAC-5131, extension 441 or 442.

Nicotine patch gets FDA OK

Approval clears the way for over-the-counter sales

The Food and Drug Administration has approved the first nicotine patch for sales without prescriptions, giving smokers easier access to Nicotrol to help them kick the habit.

Smokers began buying nicotine chewing gum over-the-counter in April, but they have sought nonprescription patches to get nicotine straight into the bloodstream.

The FDA's decision last month means McNeil Consumer Products, a unit of New Brunswick, N.J.-based Johnson & Johnson, can begin distribution to the pharmaceutical shelves with one-dose nicotine patches that smokers are supposed to take once a day for six weeks.

Two of its three competitors are New Jersey companies: Smithkline Beecham Pharmaceutical Co., which makes the Habitrol patch, and Wayne-based Lederle Laboratories, maker of the ProStep patch.

Nicotrol by prescription hasn't been a success for quitting smokers' experience as they try to quit, and the over-the-counter version won't be either, the FDA warned.

About 20 percent of smokers who tried Nicotrol by prescription, which comes with a special audiotape support program, succeeded in quitting for a month, about the same success rate of various anti-smoking aids.

"If you still have cravings after six weeks, check with your doctor," advised Dr. Debra Bowen, the FDA's director of over-the-counter drugs. "It can take a couple of tries for people to quit."

McNeil said smokers can buy one first nonprescription Nicotrol patch at an exact price wasn't named, but McNeil estimated consumers will spend just under $30 a week. Although that's comparable to the prescription price before insurance coverage kicks in, the switch may take more out of smokers' pockets because few insurers pay for over-the-counter drugs.

No one should smoke or use any other nicotine product, even the chewing gum, while using Nicotrol. Doing so could cause a nicotine overdose, with such symptoms as an irregular heartbeat, palpitations, nausea or vomiting. The FDA warned smokers to stop using Nicotrol if they experience any of these effects, or suffering skin irritation that doesn't wane should stop using Nicotrol, the agency said. And people with serious heart disease or who take prescription medicine for depression or asthma should ask their doctors before using Nicotrol.

Some 46 million Americans smoke, and the government says it kills 400,000 a year. Surveys show three-fourths of smokers want to quit but have failed or fear trying.

Yearly prescription sales of the nation's four nicotine patches and Nicorette, the nicotine gum, have stagnated in recent years as smokers became frustrated with the patches' long delivery times.

Drug makers are hoping that switching the products to nonprescription sales will revive the market, saying 70 percent of would-be quitters don't want or can't afford to pay doctor fees.

The patch resembles a big bandage, worn on the upper arm.

Prescription versions release nicotine through skin in small and smaller doses to wean smokers off cigarettes. But to simplify selling directly to consumers, the nonprescription Nicotrol will come only in one strength — 15 milligram patches applied in the morning and removed at night. It's good longer than six weeks. A new patch is used each day.

The FDA's approval lets McNeil beat Nicoderm, made by Hoechst Marion Roussel, to the market. Nicoderm plans to offer 21 milligram, 15 milligram and 7 milligram patches, so smokers can gradually wean themselves over 10 weeks.

FDA's scientific advisers in April recommended that both patches be sold without a prescription, but the agency has not acted on Nicoderm.

Pain relievers may cut Alzheimer's risk

Some pain relievers that people can buy without a prescription — including Advil, Motrin and Nuprin — may reduce their risk of developing Alzheimer's disease by as much as 60 percent, researchers said.

But a 14-year Johns Hopkins University study of 2,063 older people cautions that it is too early to conclude that it's time to rush out and stock up on the remedies, which contain ibuprofen.

The study didn't establish dosage levels and clinical trials will be needed before the findings can be used to dictate treatments, said co-author Walter Stewart, an epidemiologist at Johns Hopkins.

However, other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs — known as NSAIDS — also can cause gastric bleeding and other serious side effects, the researchers said.

The findings, Stewart said, "are promising, offering some signs of hope."

The study is the latest and one of the largest suggesting such drugs help the brain fight the negative effects of amyloid protein deposits linked to Alzheimer's, the degenerative brain disorder.

The researchers found that ibuprofen and other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs can reduce the risk of developing Alzheimer's by up to 60 percent. The longer the use, the better the results, they said.

Study: Pill, stroke risk unrelated

The birth control pills now on the market do not appear to increase the risk of a stroke, a study found.

The pill was linked to strokes in the 1960s and '70s, when it contained considerably more estrogen than now. A major new study in California looked at the current low-estrogen varieties.

The study, conducted by Dr. Diana B. Petitti and colleagues from the Kaiser Permanente Medical Care Program, was published in a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The researchers identified 408 strokes among 1.1 million young women enrolled in the health plan from 1991 through 1994. This works out to 11 strokes for every 100,000 women per year.

Lively Taste

Does the milk-and-cereal routine taste tired? Give dry cereal spunk by using flavor yogurt or pudding instead of milk. Just match fruit flavors of yogurt and a cereal, such as blueberries or peach, to prepackaged instant pudding in vanilla or banana flavor with skim milk and pair it with a complimentary cereal. Like with milk, fold the dairy product and the dry cereal together immediately before eating to preserve the textures.

Health & Fitness

Medicine Chest

Stopping up a burn with petroleum jelly, butter, home remedy or tight bandage actually can promote bacterial growth and cause infection. A burn should be cleaned immediately, treated with ice and lightly bandaged to keep it clean. Burns can get worse with time. Any oozing or sign of infection should be brought to the attention of a health care provider.

Fresh Picks

Summer eating gets tastefully corny. Creamed fresh corn is easy to make. Cut kernels from cobs. For each 1 to 2 cups kernels, combine in a saucepan with 1/4 cup water or milk, 2 to 3 tablespoons nonfat (brick) cream cheese and a few turns of a fresh pepper mill. Cover. Simmer over low heat about 15 minutes.

Big Fat Tip

Fat-laden, meat and cheese sandwiches can be updated with great-tasting, healthful fresh vegetables. Try a summery bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich. Heat two (1-ounce) slices Canadian bacon. Layer with leafy romaine lettuce, hefty slices of tomato and fat-free mayonnaise, book-ended by 2 slices of white or whole-grain bread, toasted. The new version is about 30 grams lighter in fat than using 3 slices regular bacon and 2 tablespoons regular mayonnaise.

Look, mom, no drips. Research initiated by U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists to develop a citrus-peeling technique has resulted in ready-to-eat oranges and grapefruits in whole segments and no peels. It is being tried on school menus in Brevard County, Fla., by kids who otherwise may not bother to eat many citrus. In about six seconds in a processing plant, commercially available food-grade enzymes dissolve the white, pithy material holding peel to fruit and remove the peel.

Japanese, Filipino, Chinese, Korean, Southeast Asian and Portuguese influences turn Hawaiian flavors into a mixture of contrasting flavors and textures. From left, Blue Hawaii Coleslaw, Caribe Pork Chops and Pineapple, Paradise Punch, and Tropical Pizza Pie turn patio pleasure at home into a tropical feast.

TROPICAL TRICKS

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

The tourist just returned from Hawaii has a new attitude. After watching the sun rise from Diamond Head, driving through the tropical rain forest on the winding road to Hana and pronouncing every vowel in every word for a week or two, the traveler has new appreciation for the tropical experience, from flowers to flavors.

New foods — even poi — leave an imprint of the Pacific environment. Hawaiian cuisine fits mainland summer well, because it relies on mouth-watering fresh flavors and excels in cooking outdoors.

Best of all, the same flavors are available back home after the trip. They can be added in non-fussy ways throughout the day.

For instance, try Pacific Rim Cooler. In a blender or food processor, blend 2 cups milk, 2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon coconut extract and 2 tablespoons sugar on high speed until frothy. Pour into 4 tall glasses filled with ice cubes. If desired, garnish with fresh mint sprigs or pineapple chunks.

If a beverage of a different color matches better, try Paradise Punch.

In a large pan, heat 2 cups sugar and 3 cups water until sugar dissolves. Let cool.

In blender or food processor, blend 2 cups pineapple juice and 3 bananas, quartered, until smooth. Combine with 3 cups orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and sugar mixture.

Pour into a 1-quart resealable plastic bag or large bowl or dish. Freeze at least 6 hours, or overnight.

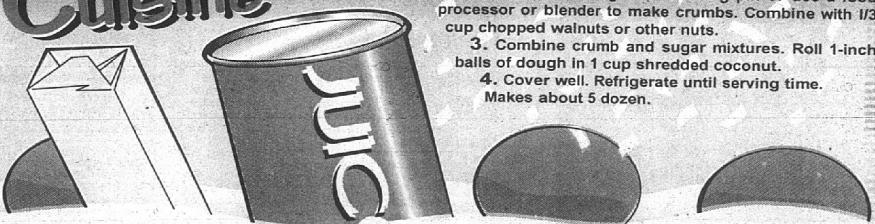

Before using, let stand at room temperature about 2 hours until thawed slightly. Pour into punch bowl. Stir in 1 liter lemon-lime soda, chilled.

For a side dish or even as dessert, cook rice in pineapple juice instead of water. Add almonds, raisins and the crunch of water chestnuts.

SUMMER SNOWBALLS

Kid's Cuisine

1. In a microwave oven or over low heat on stove top, heat 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter or margarine and 1/2 cup frozen orange or pineapple juice concentrate until butter melts. Add 2/3 cup confectioner's sugar. Heat a little longer, just until mixture becomes smooth.

2. Crush 8 to 10 ounces vanilla wafers. To do this, run over them in a tightly closed plastic bag with a rolling pin or use a food processor or blender to make crumbs. Combine with 1/3 cup chopped walnuts or other nuts.

3. Combine crumb and sugar mixtures. Roll 1-inch balls of dough in 1 cup shredded coconut.

4. Cover well. Refrigerate until serving time.
Makes about 5 dozen.

Hometown Test Run

A kids' summer may not be complete without pasta for lunch. Shop 'n Save brand offers more economical cans.

Many kids grow up on pasta for lunch

It was a true confession of her grown-up son. A taster said, "It was about his 24th birthday and he told me he had lived on canned pasta his first year out on his own. He said, 'I know it,' she said.

His expertise would have been tested at a tasting for Shop 'n Save spaghetti rings in tomato sauce and spaghetti in tomato sauce and cheese.

In a world where spaghetti sauce is deep red and pasta comes in multi-colored shapes, it is hard to imagine growing up on canned pasta.

But they have for years — quite well, thank you.

Most of an adult's criticism is what a child loves about it.

"Neither sauce cries, 'Tomato!'" said a taster. "On the ring pasta, there was a bland taste to the sauce, which is almost sweet."

Another taster added, "The regular spaghetti was more firm, had richer taste and better consistency. It is not something I'd buy (for myself), but think all little kids like it. Mine sure did."

Berry recipe trifles over English dessert

Susan Burney, Town and Country, has come up with a winner from English friends in her adaptation of American Trifle.

She and her husband have exchanged visits with their English friends four times since 1988. They have exchanged many recipes, including this one, which Burney makes with gelatin, vanilla pudding and a liqueur, instead of sherry.

Blue Ribbon Cook judges are on the prowl for quick desserts this month. They want contestants to share a favorite.

One recipe per household may be sent to: Quick-Quick Dessert Recipe Contest, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131. It should be mailed by Aug. 31, so winners can be published during September.

Entries will have a chance to win one-per-week a next month, so there are four chances to win.

AMERICAN TRIFLE

1 pound cake, cut in cubes
1/3 cup Amaretto or Grand
Marinie liqueur, if desired
1 cup blueberries
1 cup sliced strawberries or raspberries

1 cup sliced banana
1 pkg. (4 servings) sugar-free gelatin
1 pkg. (4 servings) instant vanilla pudding
Frozen whipped topping, thawed

In large glass bowl or 13-by-9-inch dish, layer cake cubes. Pour liqueur over cake. Place fruit on top.

Prepare gelatin according to package directions, using only about three-fourths of the water. Pour on top of cake and fruit. Refrigerate until gelatin is firm.

Prepare pudding according to package directions. Pour over gelatin. After pudding sets, add layer of whipped topping.

Combine orange juice, oil, cilantro, ginger and garlic in shallow non-metallic dish. Add pineapple and pork. Turn to coat all sides with mixture. Marinate, covered, 15 minutes in refrigerator.

Grill or broil pork and pineapple 10 to 15 minutes on each side until pork is no longer pink in center and pineapple is lightly browned. If desired, grill occasionally with reserved marinade first 15 minutes of grilling. Discard remaining marinade.

CARIBE PORK CHOPS AND PINEAPPLE

1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 tsp. oil
1 tsp. chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
1/2 tsp. chopped ginger root
1 clove garlic, finely chopped

1 can (20 oz.) sliced pineapple, drained
6 pork rib chops (3/4 inch thick)
Bell pepper rings, if desired

Freezer is cool addition to array of pantry perks

Every time I open the freezer to take out a pint of homemade peach pie filling or some of last summer's corn, bright, happy colors I realize how fortunate we are to be able to preserve food this way. Today the freezer is our root cellar, our larder, our pantry.

While mom and grandma spent hours canning or drying fruits and vegetables, it's easier now to preserve the bounty from the garden or a local farmer's market in a fraction of that. Taking advantage of sale prices on seasonal produce lets me cut the food bill the rest of the year.

While this space allows general tips and suggestions for freezing vegetables that taste as good after several months in the freezer as the day they went in, detailed information on freezing specific foods is available through Extension publications.

Freeze young, tender vegetables of good quality that are fresh from the garden. If the vegetables cannot be frozen immediately, refrigerate them first by size, ripeness and color.

Wash and drain all vegetables before peeling. Wash small lots at a time with several changes of cold water.

Blanching — scalding vegetables in boiling water for a short period of time is a must for almost all vegetables except onion and green pepper.

It slows or stops the action of enzymes that cause vegetables to grow and mature.

Without blanching, enzymes continue to be active during frozen storage causing unpleasant colors and flavors and toughness.

Blanching time is crucial and varies with each vegetable.

table and the size of pieces to be frozen. Under-blanching actually speeds up the activity of enzymes and is worse than no blanching. Consult a good freezing reference for recommended blanching times for specific vegetables.

As soon as blanching is completed, cool vegetables quickly and thoroughly by plunging them into a large amount of very cold water to stop the cooking process. Drain well before packing.

Pack immediately into freezer containers, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Another packing source is paper bags, removing as much air as possible from bags before closing tightly. Label with name of vegetable and date.

Tray packing can be used for vegetable pieces that remain loose so some can be poured from the container and the package loosened. Spread vegetables in a single layer on a tray and freeze until just firm. Promptly package without head space, label and return to the freezer.

Burgers from the grill make big back-yard hit

What is summer without the pleasure of a big, juicy, grilled-to-perfection ham burger? It is hard to imagine.

Still, you've changed. You're eating lighter, healthier. So what about that back-yard burger?

"Why not?" says Anne

Piatek, registered dietitian and nutrition consultant.

"Lean ground beef fits nicely into everyone's eating plan. The key is choosing ground beef labeled 90 percent lean or greater."

According to Piatek, a small grilled hamburger supplies vital nutrients with fewer calories than many fast-food meals people realize. In fact, a three-ounce burger made from 90 to 95 percent lean ground beef has fewer than 170 calories, a mere 70 milligrams of cholesterol and less than 10 grams fat.

A dry cooking method, such as grilling or broiling, further reduces fat content. Just do not overcook it or its flavor spills through the rack.

Possibly the best news of all is beef is a powerhouse of essential nutrients many women and children neglect getting.

"Beef is a great source of zinc, a mineral essential for our body's growth, development and repair," Piatek says.

Beef also provides the mineral iron and the source of protein a woman 40 percent of the zinc and 15 percent of the iron she needs in a day."

There is a bonus: Ground beef is an excellent source of high-quality protein.

A good burger deserves a delicious bun. Do not limit choices to the soft, white variety. Choices abound.

Try whole wheat buns, sliced sourdough bread, kaiser rolls or onion bagels. The bun complements the burger and helps meet the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food Guide Pyramid recommendation of six to 11 servings from the bread and grain group each day.

So, enjoy that lighter, healthier summer burger and pile on the lettuce, tomato and ketchup. These savory burgers are from "Eat Light with Beef II." Registered dietitian Tricia Duseault is a volunteer for the American Heart Association, St. Louis Chapter.

Micro Raves

By SANDRA HOUNSOM

Eat fresh tomato today, save extra for tomorrow

People ambitious enough to have a home garden reap the rewards of delicious, vine-ripened fresh vegetables. Sometimes lucky neighbors help eat the overflow.

Vegetables picked at their peak of flavor should be eaten as soon as possible, but tomatoes three times a day can wear out anyone's tastes.

Enter the microwave oven, a handy gadget to blanch those extra vegetables for freezing. Canning, an all-day project by conventional methods, should not be attempted in a microwave oven. However, small batches of vegetables from a handy garden can be blanched easily and put in containers for freezing.

Here are the easy steps:

• Wash them slice or dice vegetables.

• Place no more than 1 quart or 1 pound cleaned and peeled vegetables into 2-quart microwave-safe container. Add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water. Cover. Microwave for half the minimum time listed. Stir and re-cover.

Microwave for the remaining time on high power.

• Immediately plunge vegetables into ice water to stop the cooking process.

• Spread on paper towels to remove excess moisture.

• Vegetables can be packaged at this point.

My preference is to have the vegetables loose-packed, so they do not freeze into a single block, so at this point spread the vegetables in a layer on a cookie sheet and place it in the freezer. After they are completely frozen, they can be packed in airtight containers. Label, date and return them to the freezer to await winter.

• Vegetable blanching times: Green or wax beans, 4 to 6 minutes; broccoli in 1-inch cuts, 4 to 6 minutes, and zucchini (dice or cube), 3 to 4½ minutes.

Tomatoes are delicious any way when they are vine-ripened. Eat them plain or try this relish on hamburgers.

Home economist Sandra Hounsom specializes in microwave cooking.

Steak moves out of pan onto plate of frilly greens

A steak, simply defined by Webster, is a cut of beef for broiling. That is a short view. It can be served directly from a grill, pan or broiler, or it can be sliced to use in sandwich or salad.

A colorful salad with beef bursts with ingredients that can be switched according to tastes. Beans, vegetables, sometimes cheese, maybe a special vinegar or garlic flavoring all rotate with meat.

Steak and Black-Eyed Pea Salad takes about 25 minutes to prepare.

STEAK AND BLACK-EYED PEA SALAD

2 boneless beef top loin steaks (3/4 lb.), cut 1 inch thick
1/2 cup canned black-eyed peas, drained
6 cups torn mixed salad greens
1/2 cup julienne-cut carrot
1/2 cup julienne-cut turnip
1/2 cup (1 oz.) crumbled

LEMON-PEPPED STEAK SALAD

blue cheese
Salt and pepper
Vinaigrette
Reserving 3 tablespoons of mixture, combine black-eyed peas with remaining Vinaigrette.

Heat nonstick skillet over medium heat until hot. Cook steaks 9 to 11 minutes for medium-rare to medium doneness, turning once. Season with salt and pepper. Let stand 10 minutes.

Trim fat from steak. Slice steak crosswise.

In large bowl, toss together beef, greens, black-eyed peas, carrot, turnip and reserved 3 tablespoons Vinaigrette. Season with more pepper, if desired. Sprinkle with cheese.

Vinaigrette: In small bowl, whisk together 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar, 1 small clove garlic (crushed), 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon sugar. Makes 4 servings.

1 boneless beef top sirloin steak (about 1 lb.), cut 1 inch thick
1 pkg. (10 oz.) torn mixed salad greens
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
Dressing

Trim fat from steak. Cut lengthwise in half, then crosswise in strips 1/2-inch thick. Reserving 1/4 cup Dressing, toss beef with remainder until it is coated.

Heat large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat until hot. Stir-fry beef, half at a time, 2 to 3 minutes until outside surface is no longer pink. Do not overcook. Using slotted spoon, remove from skillet.

with reserved 1/4 cup Dressing, stir-fry until coated. Add

In large bowl, toss greens

cheese. Toss lightly.

They say one of the best things Saturn has going for it (besides, of course, the car) is our "no-hassle" purchase process. Now, we don't see why we should act any differently toward cars that aren't Saturns.

So, if you want to buy a car without having to feel like you're, you know, buying a car, stop by. We just may surprise you.
